"ASLAP AT MR. GOFF."

Commodore Gerry Speaks Against the City Magistrate's Bill.

Thinks the Responsibilities Too Great for Untried Men.

The LXX. Represented at the Hearing at Albany.

(Special to The Evening World.) ALBANY, March 5.—Before the Assembly Committee this afternoon a number of New Yorkers appeared for and against the Police Justice Power of Removal bill.

From the Committee of LXX. came Messrs. Larocque and Deland. The Police Justices were represented by Justices Taintor and Feltner, and Commodore E. T. Gerry appeared for himself.

Mr. Gerry had two or three amendments he desired incorporated in the place of certain provisions contained in the bill taking from the Court of General Sessions the right to hear appeals from the Police Justices' courts.

Joseph Larocque, before the meeting began, said that he had brought up specific charges against the present occupants of the Police Court Bench, nor did he know of any.

"The newspapers have made charges enough," said he, "and there is no necessity for us to bring any. We favor the Lawson Power of Removal bill, and it stands. It is a system we want to change."

Messrs. Taintor and Feltner opposed the bill on the same lines as presented at previous meetings. They alleged that the measure is constitutional.

Commodore Gerry was the first to speak. He said he did not oppose the bill on general principles, but thought it should be amended by striking out sections 19 and 20, which takes from the Court of General Sessions the power to hear appeals from the case of children and gives it to the Court of Special Sessions. The judges of which are to be appointed by the Governor.

His amendments proposed that the power to hear appeals from the case of children should remain in the hands of the Judges of the General Sessions.

CLEVELAND ON AN OUTING.

President Dodges Cuckoos and Goes After Other Birds.

The Ancient Violet Bears Him Southward in Quest of Sport.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WASHINGTON, March 5.—President Cleveland has shaken the dust of Washington from his feet and gone hunting in the Violet. His close friend and physician, Dr. O'Reilly, goes with him.

No one knows how long they will be gone. The President does not know himself. He will stay, however, until well rested, and until about one hundred Democratic ex-Congressmen have somehow, he will thus be killing a large assortment of cuckoos and other birds in Washington at the same time he is slaying duck, teal and plover along the inside courses of the North Carolina coast.

Commander George T. Wilde, Naval Secretary of the Light-House Board, goes along to familiarize himself with the light-houses and buoys of the district, and Commander Benjamin P.
Lamberton, Inspector of the Fifty-third District, makes his annual inspection at the same time.

The Violet is taken because she is the only light-house tender which can get into the shallow waters and pass safely below Norfolk. She only draws seven and a half feet when loaded. She is a fast runner, and because of her shallow draft, she is a thing of shreds and patches. She can make about six knots an hour when pushed at top speed.

The official object of the Violet's trip is for purposes of inspection and to replace the buoys which have been carried away during the winter by storm and ice. She will take on a load of buoys at Norfolk. Then if the ice is out, will work through the Dismal Swamp Canal, Albemarle Sound Canal, North Landing River, the Pamlico River, through Croatan Sound down to Cape Hatteras.

President Cleveland's going does not add one dollar to the cost of the trip, and he pays his dollar a day for extra rations as he did before. The expense of running the Violet is about $12,000 a year.

There were many callers at the White House to-day, more than have been seen for some time. Every Senator and Representative who was about to leave the city and desired to see the President before he left, called on him. The President was not unexpected, although Mr. Thurston, his private secretary, said that he was not until last night that the President finally determined to take his outing, but the Violet had been brought around to Washington and was all provisioned and coaled ready for orders at any moment.

After an early breakfast, about 9 o'clock this morning, the President's carriage was driven around to the rear of the White House and the President, with Mr. Thurston and Dr. O'Reilly, his attending physician, entered, Sinclair, the valet, took his place on the box with the coachman, and the party was seen driving away rapidly to the White House grounds rapidly to the place where the Violet lay with steam up.

KASCHOSKA IS LOST.

Friends Ask the Police to Find the Professor.

Said to Have Been Crazy By Love for Mme. Nordica.

No Trace of Him Since He Disappeared Dec. 5.

A general alarm was sent out from Police Headquarters this afternoon for Prof. Sigmund Kaschoska, who mysteriously disappeared on Dec. 5 from 222 West Thirty-fifth street.

About the middle of December the newspapers contained stories to the effect that Prof. Kaschoska had unob-servedly committed suicide.

Mr. Walter Damrosch denied the story at that time, stating that the professor had been found in the asylum for the insane on Blackwell's Island.

He had just signed a contract with Mr. Damrosch to train the chorus of voices for the season of German opera, and his salary was unusually large.

The professor seemed to be well pleased with the engagement, and his disappearance was therefore the harder to explain.

Another report was to the effect that he had become infatuated with Mme.
Nordica, a famous singer, and because of being repulsed by her, he had taken the matter to heart and left the country.

Notwithstanding Mr. Damrosch's statement that the professor had been found, the friends who called at Police Headquarters this afternoon stated that no trace of him had ever been learned since the day of his disappearance.

NIGHT EDITION
VANDERBILT DIVORCE.

Mrs. William K. Granted a Decree by Supreme Court Justice Barrett.

GIVEN CUSTODY OF CHILDREN.

Result of the Scandal in Which the Name of Nellie Neustretter Figgured—Papers Sealed.

Mrs. Alva E. Vanderbilt was granted a decree of absolute divorce from William K. Vanderbilt, by Justice Barrett in the Supreme Court to-day.

The decree was granted upon the report of Referee Edmond Kelly, who was appointed by the Court to take testimony in the case Jan. 18.

The suit was brought and Mr. Vanderbilt served with the summons on Jan. 3.
Anderson, Howland & Murray, counsel for Mr. Vanderbilt, filed an answer within a few days.

The decree is the only paper on file open to the public, the testimony and all of the other papers in the case having been sealed.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is given the custody of the three children, Consuelo, Harold S. and William K. Vanderbilt, Jr.
Mrs. Vanderbilt was represented by Joseph H. Choate, Col. William Jay and William A. Duer.

Vanderbilt Made Denials.
Mr. Vanderbilt, through Henry M.
Anderson, of his counsel, denied the allegations contained in his wife's complaint, and on that question the case went to the referee to determine the truth or falsity of Mrs. Vanderbilt's charges.

Mr. Kelly found for Mrs. Vanderbilt that the charges against Mr. Vanderbilt were true, and consequently she was entitled to her decree and the care and custody of the children.

This report was filed on Feb. 5, since which time the matter has been in the hands of Justice Barrett.

The Justice, after carefully examining the testimony and wading through the report and recommendations of the referee, decided that the latter's opinion was well founded, and he approved of it in every essential feature by signing the decree.

These facts only are recited in the decree.

Vanderbilt, Jr., on Oct. 28, 1878, and Harold S. Vanderbilt, on July 6, 1884.
The children are to receive their education in this country. Both parties to the suit consented to this provision through their respective attorneys.

Mr. Vanderbilt is permitted by order of Court to visit the children at reasonable intervals.

Sealing of Papers Explained.
The fact that the papers in the case, with the exception of the decree, had been sealed, excited considerable comment.

entitled to her decree and the care and
custody of the children.

She had recently established herself in expensive apartments in Paris and at Deauville, with an elaborate entourage

The domestic difficulties between Mr.

the Mediterranean under circumstances which at once widely separated all its members.

Mrs. Vanderbilt went to England, where Scott Murray's beautiful estate, Dancefield, near Henley, on the Thames, had been rented for her.

Cornelius as a Mediator.
In June last Cornelius Vanderbilt went to London to interpose his strenuous offices to stop further, and especially public, proceedings, but was unsuccessful in restoring peace, and returned home.

Mrs. Vanderbilt committed her interests to Col. William Jay, of this city.
A formal proposition had, it was said, been made to Mrs. Vanderbilt for a separation on terms of an allowance of $100,000, the custody of her children and the possession of the three houses at Newport, Indianapolis and in New York.

In the Spring months Mr. Vanderbilt was conspicuous in Paris. He spent money without stint, and he reported to have had a very good time indeed, but Mrs. Vanderbilt has defenders among his friends here who declare unworthy of belief the published reports involving a woman.

Kept Herself Posted.
Mrs. Vanderbilt, at her country place across the Channel, is said to have been regularly informed of Mr. Vanderbilt's movements. After considering the matter she determined to take advice of some of her London friends. Her lawyers in England, it is understood, at once got into communication with Mr.
Vanderbilt's lawyers, and after a deal of offering and rejecting of plans it is said they finally reached an agreement to have merely a separation. Each was strongly opposed to publicity, and they had an idea that that might be avoided.

Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt arrived in this city on Sept. 28 by the steamship La-cania. She was accompanied by her three children.

She met none of her family at the wharf, but went immediately to Newport where a family convalescence was held and every effort, it is said, was made
